THE people of Dudi in South Fly, Western, will now be able to sell their fishery and agriculture products at Kiunga and Tabubil following the opening of a new jetty last weekend.

The jetty built at Madire village was funded through the Ok Tedi Mining Limited (OTML) tax credit scheme (TCS) at a cost of K2.1 million and was officially opened on Oct 15.

According to Ok Tedi Development Foundation (OTDF) manager infrastructure development, George Kombe, a total of K14.79 million through the TCS was approved to construct and upgrade five jetties in South Fly.

The other four are Sturt Island and Suki jetties in Suki Fly Gogo Region, Waliyama jetty in Manawete, and Gesowa jetty in Kiwaba, South Fly.

OTDF engaged Alotau-based construction company, Nawae, to construct and upgrade the jetties.

It took Nawae Construction nine months to complete all five jetties from March 13 to Dec 15, 2015.

A small delegation led by OTDF chairman and OTML's deputy chief executive officer Musje Werror and OTDF's chief executive officer Ian Middleton went to Madire village on Oct 15 to officially open the jetty there.

OTDF chairman Musje Werror told the people of Madire that in order for a project to be delivered successfully by OTML and OTDF it needed the support of the community and the provincial government.

"The greatest partners are the people, but without your support or interest, development in your region will not happen," he said.

He also thanked the people for their consent and support for the mine to extend its operations from 2015 to 2025.
